

It is a crucial time for our nation's horses and they need our support now more than ever. Over the next few weeks, Congress will decide whether horses in the U.S. are protected as our loyal companions or sacrificed to slaughterhouses. Your show of support for horses can make all the difference.

Horse Slaughter in the U.S.

Most Americans are aghast to learn that horses are slaughtered in the U.S. The facts of horse slaughter in the U.S. are hidden far from the public eye by the slaughter industry and its supporters which is exactly how they want to keep it. In 2004, over 65,000 horses were sent to their death at slaughterhouses in Illinois and Texas and their meat shipped abroad to countries including Belgium, France and Japan to be served up as $20 per plate delicacies. Still more American horses were shipped alive to Canadian slaughterhouses to be killed. But where do these horses come from? Currently any horse sent to auction in the U.S. could end up at the slaughterhouse including unwanted companion horses, retired race horses, young, old, healthy, or lame. Companion horses are also stolen to be sold for slaughter.

Seeking an End

Despite the cruelty and size of this horrific industry, there is hope that horse slaughter will finally end in the U.S. thanks to a number of federal bills soon to be considered by Congress. Please write or call your Representative and Senators immediately and ask that they show their support for our nation's horses and cosponsor the legislation listed below. Let them know that the American public will never view horses as livestock and that the appalling destruction of this cherished symbol of our nation's culture and history must immediately end.

Be persistent! Call or fax letters until you get a Yes or No on co-sponsorship!

- Urge your Representative to cosponsor H.R. 503, The American Horse Slaughter Prevention Act. H.R. 503 would end once and for all the butchering of American horses and their export for slaughter.
- Urge your Senators to cosponsor The Ensign/Landrieu bill (companion to HR 503) introduced by veterinarian and U.S. Senator, John Ensign (R-NV) and Senator Mary Landrieu (D-LA). Bill number will be available after September 6th.

HORSE SLAUGHTER WILL CEASE-HOUSE VOTES 267-160 WITH AMERICA !

Washington , D.C. June 8, 2005-

After four long years the American Horse Defense Fund (AHDF), the country's leading, active horse protection national nonprofit is finally able to applaud the US House of Representatives, and in particular, Congressmen John Sweeney (R-NY), John Spratt (D-SC) Ed Whitfield (R-KY) and Nick Rayhall (D-WV), for their leadership and persistence in passing legislation that will end the needless and brutal slaughter of our horses, ponies, mules and burros. The vote of 267-160 was a ringing endorsement by the House. The huge grass roots calling effort by people from coast to coast really made a difference .

“We are elated, celebrating and deeply grateful” said AHDF president Trina Bellak, Esq., who has personally worked on this issue since 1994. Many organizations pooled their efforts. As the years have slowly passed, more and more American's learned that roughly 65,000 American horses are killed cruelly in one of the three foreign-owned horse slaughter plants that operate in the United States each year. The meat carved from these once noble, kind, trusting animals is shipped overseas to upscale meat markets and high-end restaurants. “Although the amendment that passed as part of the annual agriculture appropriations bill budget process only will go into affect this fall, it will give the nation and opponents time to see that the many alternatives to cruelly slaughtering our horses will work and replace slaughter” added Bellak. It will stop slaughter for one year, unless H.R. 503 passes too.

Despite overwhelming public support and 228 bipartisan cosponsors (of the House's 435 members), last year's legislative efforts to protect American horses failed to go to a vote when the American Horse Slaughter Prevention Act was blocked by the House Agriculture Committee chairman, Bob Goodlatte (R-VA). Goodlatte spoke shameful untruths again in today's debate as did other members such as King from Iowa and Bonilla from Texas . “The will of the people was not done in the previous Congress, and until we pass actual legislation that is permanent, our work is not over” Bellak added. “The truth will prevail, we are in this to help horses, we just wish the ill-informed or ill-intentioned opponents would face it” she added. “It is unconscionable that for decades, we have been using federal taxpayer dollars to support a practice that the American public is overwhelmingly opposed to,” said Representative John Sweeney (R-NY). “The amendment prohibits federal taxpayer dollars from being spent on facilitating the export of horsemeat from the United States for sale to countries abroad. I’m pleased to see that my colleagues agree with me that this horrid inhumane treatment must end.”

Americans are shocked that our horses continue to suffer such unspeakable cruelty during both long grueling journeys to slaughter plants and at the plants themselves. Horses can be hauled without food, water, or rest for as long as 28 hours. The captive bolt pistol used in slaughter plants is not in anyway humane. Often not rendered unconscious (which is required by law), many horses are fully aware and sensitive to pain while proceeding through the slaughter process.

Sweeney also remarked, “We do not eat our horses in the United States and it is our moral responsibility as a humane nation to protect our equine pets, companions and athletes from the cruelty of horse slaughter.”
